ESTIMATE: Okeh exploitation burlesque entry.

CAST: Tempest Storm, Betty Page, Trudy Wayne, Hedy Bey, Cherry Knight, Twinnie Wallen, Pepe and Roccio, Chris La Chris, Vicki Lynn, Joey Ross, Dave Starr. Produced and directed by Irving Klaw.

STORY: The format of the film is a series of scenes, each devoted to the talents of one of the lovely ladies. Tempest Storm is observed in a variety of poses and positions; Trudy Wayne, Betty Page, Hedy Bey and others engage in similar acts. Vicki Lynn, female impersonator, engages in a dance which concludes with a revelation of sex. Pepe and Roccio are seen in a Spanish dance number. Comedy relief, in the form of low-brow corn, is supplied by Joey Ross and Dave Starr.

X-RAYS This is guaranteed to satisfy the devotees of burlesque. The talents of the lovelies are amply distributed throughout, accentuated by Eastman Color.

AD LINES: "Tempest Storm . . . So Big We Had To Use Wide Screen"; "The Girls Are Naughty And The Comedy Is Funny"; "Girls . . . Girls . . . They're All Entertaining."

Teaserama (COLOR)

"Burlesque type" film with potential in sexploitation spots.

"Teaserama is heralded by producer-director Irving Klaw as a "burlesque variety type revue feature. If the film even approached

Accent on this entry is the female form. Its supplied in this instance by a contingent of some half-dozen strippers headed by Tempest Storm. A tousle-haired redhead, she's generously supplied bosomwise. Although strategic areas are covered by bra and G-string, little is left to the imagination as she shakes and wiggles her anatomical salients.

It may be said that once you've seen Miss Storm you've seen 'em all. For the Misses Betty Page, Trudy Wayne, Chris La Chris et al also make with the strip routine, but by this time the law of diminishing returns is beginning to assert itself. Also involved in the proceedings are a pair of unbillied male burly comics and a so-so Latino terp turn tagged Pepe & Roccio.

Most of the musical accompaniment sounds suspiciously like a piano, drum and a trumpet. Eastman Color camerawork of Michael Slifka, however, is fairly good considering the circumstances.

Apparently there's a market for this type product. For producer-director Klaw turned out a similar film last year titled "Varietease."
